

About This Resource:

Thank you to all our supporters!

As you have noticed, we have made over a dozen Roll & Stamp activity sheets. All you need to do is provide a die and dot marker (or crayons, markers, etc.). Depending on if you are doing a speech activity or incorporating writing, you may need a pencil and writing paper. I enjoy asking kids to roll their die, select a word, and then write it. They write or say so much more. Even wanting to put each word into a sentence. I am excited to see what they will say and they are more apt to want to correct writing errors or speech errors. This is a great tool!

For articulation pages, just have the student say the words or make a sentence with the words from the selected row. This is also wonderful as a writing tool, as kids are more motivated to write and correct errors with the distraction of rolling die and placing dot or small eraser or color on each word. Remember that rolling die is a wonderful fine motor support move as well.

Cognitive element pages are also fun as you call out the synonym, antonym, rhyming word, or opposite of the word selected from the word column.

Enjoy these colorful illustrated pages full of skill building fun!

We also thank you for not abusing this resource by making copies for all your therapist friends. To keep this site available and running, it takes money, and any extra monies get redistributed back to our members who demonstrate need.

We recognize that we are not perfect as you may find typo's and other errors, but we try our best to get tools out to you quickly and enhance your therapy or entertainment experience. Our mission is to help everyone who needs to build skills, maintain them, or just have fun with something that is not electronic. We want each one of your loved ones to have access to these therapy tools so that we can take care of each other. Be good to yourself and others. Thank you for being part of our team!
